"Citizen" vs. "Chairman,"

Heliters Merning Herold:

Just say to your correspondent "Chairman"

one dollar's worth of interest in any livery stable," here or elsewhere, nor in any stock kept in any thing about the business, and probably would make as bad a job of it as "Chairman" does of the streets. Now, in connection with this, we will relate a little personal matter, which, by the way, might be suggestive to Mr. "Chairman," but it is bardly probable that he or the citizen will be benefited. We case had what we called a fine horse—indeed, we have had a number of we wanted to go, and we concluded that if w 4,125 did not understand how to properly take care o 14,000 the animal, it was not proper for us to keep one, and we have sever owned one since. We acknow-ledged our tecapacity and quit the business. Now let Mr. "Chairman" follow what we believe was a sensible and humane conclusion. little or nothing about the construction of street or the principle of drainage. The streets unde his management have become dangerous, and at better judgment than he has lately exhibited, if he would resign, and let them keep livery stable that understand the business. Now, Mr. Chai you will tunnel under, or bridge over, Monroe Monroe street wish to use the streets and cross ings there, as do also the citizens living north of Spring street. And by the way, "Citizen" has a pretty good idea of economy; he would not accept a position for which he was not qualified and cause the city to pay thousands of dollar do with livery stables, and want no more bline horses, and think the city would do well to go rid of inefficient "chairmen."
